DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO STAY THIS LITIGATION

NOTE ON MOTION CALENDAR: May 4, 2007

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant Inviva, Inc. (“Inviva”) hereby moves to stay this lawsuit pending resolution of another lawsuit brought by Plaintiffs James S. Gordon, Jr. (“Gordon”) and Omni Innovations, LLC (“Omni”) alleging precisely the same claims before this Court – Gordon et al. v. Virtumundo et al., Case No. CV06-0204-JCC, W.D.Wash. (Coughenour, J.) (“Gordon”). Gordon is scheduled for trial on June 18, 2007. The complaints and causes of action alleged by Plaintiffs are virtually identical in each case. In Gordon, there are cross-motions for summary judgment which may result in a dispositive issue preclusion/collateral estoppel effect on this case. Plaintiffs seek only statutory damages

1 and are, therefore, not suffering irreparable harm from the emails in question. In contrast, 2 without a stay of proceedings in this case, the Court's resources are likely to be wasted
 3 and the parties will incur unnecessary legal fees and costs. Indeed, in two other cases 4 involving Gordon and Omni, this Court has already ordered stays pending resolution of 5 Gordon. See Omni Innovations, LLC v. SmartBargains.com, LP, Case No. CV06-01129-6 JCC, W.D.Wash. (Coughenour, J.) ("SmartBargains") (Dkt. # 17), Omni Innovations, 7 LLC et al. v. Ascentive, LLC et al., Case No. CV06-01284-TSZ, W.D.Wash. (Zilly, J.)
 8 ("Ascentive") (Dkt. # 75).

10 II. FACTS

11 In this case, as in Gordon, the Plaintiffs allege violations of the CAN-SPAM Act 12 of 2003, 15 U.S.C. § 7701 et seq. ("CAN-SPAM") and the Washington Commercial 13 Electronic Mail Act (RCW 19.190) ("CEMA"). In both cases, each Plaintiff claims to be 14 an "interactive computer service" as defined in CAN-SPAM and CEMA. (See Gordon, 15 First Amended Complaint (Dkt. # 15) ¶¶ 3.2, 3.3; see also Plaintiffs' Second Amended 16 Complaint ("SAC") at ¶ 7-8.) Plaintiffs' claimed CAN-SPAM and CEMA damages 17 depend on their alleged status as interactive computer services. (SAC at ¶¶ 18, 20.)

18 Also, in both cases Plaintiffs seek damages based upon the following theories:

19 13. Each of the E-mails misrepresents or obscures information in identifying 20 the point of origin or the transmission path thereof, and contains header 21 information that is materially false or materially misleading. The 22 misrepresentations include without limitation: "From" lines that fail to 23 accurately identify the sender, and/or any other individual or entity responsible 24 for initiating the email, or operating as a point of origin; IP addresses and host 25 name information that do not match, or are missing or false, in the "from" and 26 "by" tokens in the Received header field.

27 14. On information and belief, Plaintiffs allege that some of the E-mails used 28 false, or misleading information in registering the domains from which the 29 subject E-mails were sent, and that numerous domains were used to send the 30 E-mails for no other purpose but to avoid spam filters, evade detection, and 31 otherwise obscure the true point of origin of the E-mails.

32 (Plaintiffs' Second Amended Complaint ("SAC") at ¶ 13-14.)

33 Plaintiffs brought essentially identical claims in Gordon. (See Gordon, First

1 Amended Complaint (Dkt. # 15).) In that case, the defendants moved for summary 2 judgment alleging, inter alia, (i) that Plaintiffs do not have standing because they are not, 3 and never were, an interactive computer service (or Internet access service)<sup>1</sup> adversely 4 affected by the subject emails; and (ii) that Plaintiffs' theories regarding an email "from" 5 line cannot give rise to a violation under CAN-SPAM or CEMA. (See Gordon, 6 Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment (Dkt. # 98).)

7 Plaintiffs' novel theories asserted in Gordon are unsupported by case law, FTC 8 rule or regulation, or express statutory language. (See Gordon, Defendants' Motion for 9 Summary Judgment (Dkt. # 98) at 16-28.) In that case, Gordon and Omni allege 10 violations of CAN-SPAM and CEMA from emails they allege defendants sent with an 11 improper IP address and host name protocol, transfer token information and other email 12 header information. (Id.) The basis of Plaintiffs' claims are technical in nature and 13 involve the intricacies and inner workings of email transmission over the Internet.

14 III. ARGUMENT

15 A. Standard for Granting a Stay of Proceedings.

16 In the interest of judicial economy, the Court may exercise its inherent power to 17 stay proceedings until the resolution of a related matter that would resolve a dispositive 18 matter. See Leyva v. Certified Grocers of California, 593 F.2d 857, 863-64 (9th Cir.
 19 1979) ("A trial court may, with propriety, find it is efficient for its own docket and the 20 fairest course for the parties to enter a stay of an action before it, pending resolution of 21 independent proceedings which bear upon the case."); see also Silvaco Data Systems, Inc.
 22 v. Technology Modeling Associates, Inc., 896 F. Supp. 973, 975 (N.D. Cal. 1995) ("in 23 the interest of wise judicial administration, a federal court may stay its proceedings where 24 a parallel state action is pending") (internal citation omitted).

25
 26 <sup>1</sup> CAN-SPAM's definition of "Internet access service" is nearly identical to CEMA's definition of 27 "interactive computer service." At 47 U.S.C. § 231(e)(4), CAN-SPAM defines an Internet access service as "a 28 service that enables users to access content, information, electronic mail, or other services offered over the Internet
 ... (emphasis added). CEMA's definition of "Internet service provider", at RCW 19.190.010(8), applies to a party "that provides or enables computer access by multiple users to a computer server, including specifically a service or system that provides access to the internet ..."(emphasis added).

1       “Collateral estoppel” or “offensive nonmutual issue preclusion” generally prevents 2 a party from relitigating an issue that the party has litigated and lost. See Catholic Social 3 Servs., Inc. v. I.N.S., 232 F.3d 1139, 1152 (9th Cir. 2000). The application of “offensive 4 nonmutual issue preclusion” is appropriate if:

- 5       1. there was a full and fair opportunity to litigate the identical issue in 6 the prior action, see Fund for Animals, Inc. v. Lujan, 962 F.2d 1391, 7 1399 (9th Cir. 1992); Resolution Trust Corp. v. Keating, 186 F.3d 8 1110, 1114 (9th Cir. 1999); *Appling v. State Farm Mut. Auto Ins.
 9 Co.*, 340 F.3d 769, 775 (9th Cir. 2003);
- 10       2. the issue was actually litigated in the prior action, see Appling, 340 11 F.3d at 775;
- 12       3. the issue was decided in a final judgment, see Resolution Trust 13 Corp., 186 F.3d at 1114; and
- 14       4. the party against whom issue preclusion is asserted was a party or in 15 privity with a party to the prior action, see id.

16       See also Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 741, 746 (9th Cir. 2006); 17 Robi v. Five Platters, Inc., 838 F.2d 318, 322 (9th Cir. 1988).

18       B. A Stay Is Appropriate in This Case Because This Court Is Adjudicating 19 Plaintiffs' Identical Claims in Gordon.

20       If there is a judgment that Gordon and Omni do not have standing as an Internet 21 access service in Gordon, then issue preclusion will be dispositive as to Plaintiffs' federal 22 CAN-SPAM claims in the instant lawsuit. Alternatively, if the Court rejects Gordon's 23 and Omni's legal theories in Gordon, then those findings will apply to Plaintiffs' theories 24 in the instant matter.

25       First, Plaintiffs are the same entities as the plaintiffs in Gordon and have had a full 26 and fair opportunity to litigate the identical issue in the related action. Plaintiffs have had 27 an opportunity to make a record in Gordon and, if applicable, may advance any facts or 28 testimony at trial that supports their claim to be an Internet access service. Second, the matters of (i) whether Gordon or Omni have standing as an Internet access service that is adversely affected; and (ii) whether their novel theories give rise to a claim for statutory damages under CAN-SPAM or CEMA are before the Court in the Gordon case. Third,

1 the matter is fully briefed and before the Court in Gordon on summary judgment. Trial is 2 scheduled for June 18, 2007. Inviva merely requests a stay pending resolution of that 3 case and a final judgment. Finally, Plaintiffs are the identical plaintiffs as in Gordon and, 4 accordingly, the fourth prong of issue preclusion has been satisfied.

5 All four factors weigh heavily in favor of granting a stay in the above-captioned 6 case. Gordon will have a dispositive effect on this case even if the decision applies only 7 to Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM claims. The Gordon court may dismiss Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM 8 claims if it determines that Plaintiffs do not provide an Internet access service. It would 9 be an enormous waste of resources if Omni is allowed to re-litigate the same issue in this 10 lawsuit. Furthermore, since Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM and CEMA claims in this case arise 11 from the same collection of emails (SAC at ¶ 20-22), it will be far more efficient for the 12 parties and the court to address the federal and state claims simultaneously, after the 13 potentially dispositive resolution of Gordon.

14 C. This Court Has Recently Granted a Stay in Two Similar Cases.

15 This Court has already stayed two other cases involving the same issues and the 16 same Plaintiffs, thereby promoting judicial economy and avoiding the potential waste of 17 hundreds of hours of attorney time and unnecessary pretrial motion practice. Defendants 18 respectfully request the Court grant a stay in this lawsuit for the same reasons it granted 19 them in the two previous cases. In SmartBargains, defendant SmartBargains.com, LP 20 moved this court to stay that lawsuit pending resolution of Gordon. (SmartBargains, Case 21 No. CV06-01129-JCC, W.D.Wash., Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM Claims or 22 to Stay This Litigation (Coughenour, J.) (Dkt. # 13.)) In their response, Gordon and Omni 23 did not oppose staying that litigation. (See Id., Opposition to Defendant's Motion to 24 Dismiss Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM Claims (Dkt. # 14)). Subsequently, this court ordered a 25 stay in that case pending resolution of Gordon. (Id., Order (Coughenour, J.) (Dkt. # 17.))

26 Similarly, the Ascentive defendants moved to stay that case pending resolution of 27 Gordon. (Ascentive, Case No. CV06-01284-TSZ, W.D.Wash., Motion to Dismiss and to 28 Stay This Litigation (Zilly, J.) (Dkt. # 65)). Omni's only argument in response was that 1 Ascentive should not be stayed pending resolution in Gordon because the issue of 2 whether Omni has standing under CAN-SPAM as an Internet access service allegedly 3 could not affect Omni's state law CEMA claims. (See Id., Opposition to Defendants' 4 Motion to Dismiss and to Stay This Litigation (Dkt. # 69).) As the defendants' reply 5 noted, Omni's sole argument was unavailing for at least three reasons:

6 First, the Omni decision will have a dispositive effect on this case even if 7 that decision applies only to Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM claims...

8 Second, CAN-SPAM's definition of "Internet access service" is nearly 9 identical to CEMA's definition of "interactive computer service."... In light 10 of the clear similarities between the statutes, Plaintiffs' argument that the 11 Omni court's ruling on CAN-SPAM "cannot possibly impact Omni's state 12 law CEMA claims" (Response at 4:17-18) lacks credibility.

13 Third, Plaintiffs' ability to define themselves as Internet access service 14 providers is only one of the relevant issues to be determined in the 15 [Gordon] case...

16 (See Id., Defendants' Reply Re Motion to Dismiss and Stay (Dkt. # 70).) Subsequently, 17 like the SmartBargains court, the Ascentive court ordered a stay in that case pending 18 resolution of Gordon. (Id., Minute Order (Zilly, J.) (Dkt. # 75.))

19 In the event the Court declines to grant a stay in this case – which is substantially 20 similar to the SmartBargains and Ascentive cases – then the parties will have no 21 alternative but to commence discovery. Inviva will request substantially the same 22 documents and issue the same requests for admission as propounded by the defendants' 23 counsel in the Gordon lawsuit. Plaintiffs will likely provide the same answers and the 24 same documents. In turn, the parties will take depositions and develop much of the same 25 record as in the related action. These efforts will take many months and consume many 26 thousands of dollars. However, all of that time and money could be for naught if the 27 Gordon Court were to rule either that (i) Gordon or Omni are not Internet access services 28 adversely affected by emails or (ii) Gordon's and Omni's novel theories lack merit. Such rulings would eliminate Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM and CEMA claims in the instant lawsuit pursuant to the doctrine of offensive nonmutual issue preclusion.

This case is in its nascent stages and the parties have not yet devoted resources to 1 conduct discovery and pretrial motion practice. Balancing the lack of actual damages to 2 Plaintiffs against the unnecessary expenditure of resources, this Court should grant a stay 3 until such time as it makes a final adjudication of whether Plaintiffs have standing and 4 whether their email “from” line theories will prevail.

6 IV. CONCLUSION

7 The Court should stay this litigation pending resolution of collateral issues in 8 Gordon. This Court will resolve many of the same issues in that case as in this case – 9 including the threshold issue of whether Gordon and Omni have standing – and it would 10 be a gross waste of judicial resources and the resources of the parties to litigate this case 11 when the Court is already deciding the same issues in another matter.
